

List of titles to be discarded from LMC reference collection in order to make room for the Title I Math Lab

These titles are either outdated (and therefore inaccurate) or damaged, or we have duplicate copies or updated versions.

The American Library Association recommends that encyclopedias, dictionaries, atlases, and science books be discarded after five years. Technology books should be discarded after three years, and medicine and health books should be discarded after one or two years. Copyright dates for the books on this list range from 1973-2011.

The remaining reference books are being moved to our circulating non-fiction section.
